Great Scientific Discoveries Made by Accident

Many of the great discoveries in science were made by accident. Each one has its own story and its own scientist hero or heroine, from Alexander Fleming who discovered penicillin to Charles Goodyear who found out how to vulcanize rubber. Several of these fascinating stories will be discussed at the luncheon.

Larry Darlage moved to Dallas to help start up Brookhaven College. He served as Division Chair of Science and Mathematics and Vice-President of Instruction. In 1996, he was hired by Tarrant County College to serve as the president of the Northeast Campus in Hurst.
